License Codes & Photos

The following are codes used against photos when from the web. Photos without any attribution are by the author. The guides themselves are license-free but it is anticipated people will credit them as they feel appropriate to their task. The only alterations to photos will be cropping and rarely changing the light balance where the brightness level was not optimal.

CC... - "Creative Commons" with the codes following (see web explanation):-

0 - No rights

BY - Author should be named

SA - Share-Alike : utilising-works need to be licensed according to the same principle

NC - Non-Commercial uses

ND - Non-Derivative uses (generally taken as reformulations rather than light cropping)

Generally the practice of giving full credit (both real and user names), links to original, and quoting original license have been applied to all photos irrespective of license, and usually photo date and location except where space considerations prevent, where a minimum of name, link and original licence has been employed. Older guides have not necessarily have fully used these principles but they will become updated in due course to do so.
